Jeffrey Katz serves a very specific niche – 55+ communities. And he does it so well that he’s become a recognized expert in the field. He gets much of his business from people moving here from the Northeast.

“Many people moving here are not familiar with the ins and outs of buying a home in this market,” Katz says. “They’re not familiar with the pros and cons of different areas, or with the builders. So I make it a point to help them from the time they sign until they’re in their new home.”

He even visits clients’ homes every week that are under construction and posts photos of them on his Web site so his clients can see the progress.

“My business has actually been great the past two years,” he says, “because it’s a great buyer’s market.”

Katz says his hours are “24/7!”
